Statutes

15 U.S.C. 77k(e)..... 5

1           I.       INTRODUCTION

2           Plaintiff Johnny Hosey (“Plaintiff”), respectfully submits this Memorandum of Points and 3 Authorities in support of his motion for final approval of settlement.<sup>1</sup> The Settlement proposes to 4 resolve the claims against Twitter Inc. (“Twitter” or the “Company”) and certain officers and 5 directors of Twitter in exchange for a cash payment of $2.5 million. Since the Settlement is fair, 6 reasonable, and adequate, it warrants final approval.

7           The Settlement is informed by Plaintiff’s Counsel’s thorough understanding of the 8 strengths and weaknesses of the claims set forth in the Complaint, as well as of the risks and 9 expenses that they would likely confront or incur were they to proceed further with the litigation.
10 By the time that the Parties had reached an agreement in principle to settle this case, Plaintiff’s 11 Counsel had, among other things: (a) conducted an investigation of the claims, including a 12 detailed review of SEC filings, press releases, analyst reports, news reports, and other public 13 information, and consultation with loss causation and damages experts; (b) prepared a detailed 14 Complaint based on this investigation; (c) successfully opposed Twitter’s demurrer seeking 15 dismissal of the Complaint; (d) after the Court’s denial of Twitter’s demurrer, conducted 16 substantial discovery, which included negotiating for the production of more than 10,000 17 documents, consisting of approximately 100,000 pages, followed by analysis of such documents; 18 (e) successfully opposed Twitter’s motion for summary judgment on Twitter’s statute-of-19 limitations defense; (f) prepared for and defended the deposition of Plaintiff, Johnny Hosey and 20 Plaintiff’s expert witness; and, (f) engaged in a mediation process that involved the exchange of 21 detailed written submissions concerning liability and damages followed by a full-day formal 22 mediation session.

23           While Plaintiff and his counsel believe the claims asserted are strong, the Settlement is 24 fair, reasonable, and provides an excellent result for the Settlement Class, particularly in light of 25 the substantial risks and costs of prosecuting this litigation through trial and likely appeals.

26 <sup>1</sup> Unless otherwise set forth, this Memorandum incorporates by reference the definitions in the 27 Stipulation and Agreement of Settlement (the “Stipulation”), filed in connection with Plaintiff’s 28 Unopposed Motion for Preliminary Certification of Settlement Class and for Preliminary Approval of Settlement.

1 Plaintiff's Counsel were rightly concerned that continued prosecution might result in either a 2 much smaller recovery than Plaintiff sought or no recovery at all. Defendants presented strong 3 evidence that this action was untimely based on the applicable statute of limitations. Defendants 4 also intended to mount a vigorous defense at trial based on the absence of a legal duty to disclose 5 the omitted details of Twitter's stock-based compensation system.

6 Even were Plaintiff and his counsel successful in overcoming these defenses, they faced 7 the prospect of total estimated damages being limited to just a small fraction of Plaintiff's original 8 estimate of approximately $43.2 million. Plaintiff also faced the risk that damages could be 9 reduced even further based on Defendants' negative causation defense: that other negative 10 information about Twitter caused the drops in the Company's stock prices on the dates in question.
11 And hovering ominously above any and all discussions of the strength of Plaintiff's case was the 12 specter that the U.S. Supreme Court might issue a decision, in a then-pending case involving the 13 jurisdiction of state courts over Securities Act claims, that would effectively and immediately 14 deprive this Court of jurisdiction over the case.

15 In light of all of these risks, and the significant expenses Plaintiff's Counsel were certain 16 to incur were litigation to proceed further, the Settlement of $2.5 million represents an excellent 17 result for the Class and lies well above the median percentage of investor losses recovered in 18 similar securities class action settlements. Accordingly, Plaintiff respectfully requests that the 19 Court grant final approval of the Settlement.

20 II. THE PROPOSED SETTLEMENT WARRANTS FINAL APPROVAL

21 Whether to grant final approval of a class action settlement is within the Court's discretion.
22 7-Eleven Owners for Fair Franchising v. Southland Corp., 85 Cal.App.4th 1135, 1145 (2000). In 23 exercising such discretion, however, the Court must avoid substituting its judgment for that of 24 counsel who negotiated the settlement:

25 Due regard should be given to what is otherwise a private 26 consensual agreement between the parties. The inquiry must be 27 limited to the extent necessary to reach a reasoned judgment that 28 the agreement is not the product of fraud or overreaching by, or

1 collusion between, the negotiating parties, and that the settlement, 2 taken as a whole, is fair, reasonable and adequate to all concerned.

3 Dunk v. Ford Motor Co. 48 Cal.App.4th 1794, 1801 (1996).

4 A. The Dunk Presumption of Fairness Applies Here

5 In determining whether a settlement is “fair, reasonable and adequate to all concerned,” 6 this Court should consider a non-exhaustive list of factors, including “the strength of plaintiffs’ 7 case, the risk, expense, complexity and likely duration of further litigation, the risk of maintaining 8 class action status through trial, the amount offered in settlement, the extent of discovery 9 completed and the stage of the proceedings, the experience and views of counsel, the presence of 10 a governmental participant, and the reaction of the class members to the proposed settlement.” 11 Dunk, 48 Cal.App.4th at 1801. In considering these factors, which amounts to “nothing more than 12 ‘an amalgam of delicate balancing, gross approximations and rough justice,’” Id (citation 13 omitted), this Court should apply a presumption of fairness if the following conditions are met: 14 (1) the settlement is reached through arm’s-length bargaining; (2) investigation and discovery are 15 sufficient to allow counsel and the court to act intelligently; (3) counsel [are] experienced in 16 similar litigation; and (4) the percentage of objectors [is] small.” Id. at 1802.

18 B. Each of the Applicable Dunk Factors Supports Final Approval

19 The Court’s evaluation of each of the relevant Dunk considerations confirms that the 20 Settlement is fair, adequate, and reasonable.

21
22 1. The Strength of Plaintiff’s Case Favors Approval

23 While it may be true that a plaintiff “need only show a material misstatement or omission 24 to establish his prima facie case,” Hildes v. Arthur Andersen LLP, 734 F.3d 854, 859 (9th Cir.
25 2013), “[c]ourts experienced with securities fraud litigation ‘routinely recognize that securities 26 class actions present hurdles to proving liability that are difficult for plaintiffs to clear.’ ” Redwen 27 v. Sino Clean Energy, Inc., No. CV11—3936 PA (SSx), 2013 WL 12303367, at *6 (C.D. Cal.
28

1 July 9, 2013) (citation omitted). In light of such difficulty, a court will find that the strength of the 2 plaintiff’s case favors approval if it determines that “a legitimate controversy exists on a legal 3 point, if that legal point significantly affects the valuation of the case for settlement purposes.”
4 Clark v. Am. Residential Services LLC (2009)175 Cal.App.4th 785, 803.

5 This Court should find that such a “legitimate controversy” existed between the Parties 6 with respect to several issues on which Plaintiff would be required to prevail at trial. First, 7 Defendants argued—both in their demurrer and their motion for summary judgment—that 8 Plaintiff’s claims are untimely and, hence, barred by the applicable statute of limitations.
9 Although the Court disagreed with Defendants, denying both their demurrer and their summary-10 judgment motion based on Defendants’ failure to establish such defense as a matter of law, the 11 Court acknowledged, in denying summary judgment, that “Defendants have submitted evidence 12 that would support a decision by the trier of fact in favor of Defendants on the affirmative defense 13 of statute of limitations.” Opinion, dated Oct. 13, 2017, at 3. Were Plaintiff to proceed to trial on 14 this issue, a jury could easily conclude that Defendants are not liable.
15

17 Second, Defendants argued in their demurrer that Twitter had no duty to disclose the 18 omitted information regarding its employee stock-based compensation system. Although Plaintiff 19 was able to show in opposition to Defendants’ demurrer that Twitter had such a duty when all 20 reasonable inferences are drawn from his allegations in a light most favorable to him, Plaintiff 21 would not be able to take advantage of such a legal presumption at trial. Rather, at trial, the Court 22 may determine that the evidence does not support the existence of a duty on the part of Twitter to 23 disclose the details of its stock-based compensation system.
24

25 Third, Defendants dispute Plaintiff’s claim that the estimated damages in this case are 26 approximately $43.2 million based upon the statutory damages calculation. Defendants have 27 argued that damages are limited to only those traceable to Twitter’s issuance of the IPO 28

1 Registration Statement. According to Defendants, as soon as any shares not issued pursuant to the 2 Registration Statement were traded publicly, traceability ceased to exist. Defendants presented 3 information supporting the conclusion that traceability ceased as early as February 15, 2014, 4 which, if established at trial, would place a substantial cap on damages to which Plaintiff would 5 be entitled. Assuming Plaintiff were able to establish all elements of his claims, Defendants 6 argued that, after adjusting for traceability being lost upon the commingling of registered and 7 unregistered shares, Plaintiff's maximum damages would fall from the roughly $43.2 million to 8 no more than $11 million. From that $11 million damages ceiling, Defendants then argued that 9 once their negative causation defense is taken into account, Plaintiff's damages are zero.

11 Fourth, Defendants have argued that they can establish that the damages alleged here were 12 caused, either in whole or in part, by something other than the omissions regarding Twitter's 13 stock-based compensation system. See 15 U.S.C. 77k(e) (“[I]f the defendant proves that any 14 portion or all of such damages represents other than the depreciation in value of such security 15 resulting from such part of the registration statement, with respect to which his liability is asserted, 16 . . . such portion of or all such damages shall not be recoverable”). Defendants have suggested, 17 among other things, that some portion of the drops in Twitter's stock prices on the dates of the 18 corrective disclosures were caused by larger trends in the general market and that negative 19 information other than the corrective disclosures, such as high-profile departures by Twitter 20 executives. Were Defendants to persuade the Court of their position at trial, Plaintiff's damages 21 would be reduced substantially.

24 Fifth, on June 27, 2017, the Supreme Court granted certiorari in Cyan, Inc. v. Beaver Cty.
25 Emp'ees Ret. Fund, No. 15-1439, 85 U.S.L.W. 3594, 2016 WL 3040512 (U.S. June 27, 2017), on 26 the question of “whether state courts lack subject-matter jurisdiction over...class actions...that 27 allege only claims under the Securities Act of 1933.” Just a few days later, Defendants requested 28

1 that this Court stay this action in light of Cyan because “[i]f the Supreme Court agrees with Cyan, 2 it will find that this Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction to hear Securities Act cases.” Defs.’
3 Ltr. to Court, dated 6/30/17. From Plaintiff’s Counsel’s perspective, Cyan represented an 4 existential risk to this case in that Cyan could potentially deprive the Court of subject matter 5 jurisdiction. Indeed, the risk posed by Cyan was so significant that the Parties sought to ensure 6 that the Settlement would survive regardless of the Supreme Court’s decision by agreeing upon a 7 specific written provision that removed any potential impact Cyan might have on this action.<sup>2</sup>
9 Joint Declaration of Laurence Rosen and Ronen Sarraf in Support of Final Approval of Settlement 10 (“Joint Decl.” or “Joint Declaration”), filed herewith, ¶44.

11 Based on the existence of the foregoing “legitimate controversies” between the Parties, 12 the Court should conclude that the strength of Plaintiff’s case favors approval of the Settlement.
13 See In re Portal Software, Inc. Sec. Litig., No. C-03-5138 VRW, 2007 WL 4171201, at *3 (N.D.
14 Cal. Nov. 26, 2007) (“Factor (1), the strength of plaintiffs’ case, somewhat favors settlement 15 because plaintiffs’ remaining claims are tenuous. Plaintiffs assert that establishing liability and 16 damages at trial would be difficult because of the uncertainties associated with proving its claims, 17 which are ‘exacerbated by the unpredictability of a lengthy and complex jury trial’ ”).

19 2. The Substantial Risks and Expenses Associated With Continued
20 Litigation Favor Approval

21 In Dunk, the Court of Appeal cited the risks arising from plaintiffs’ belief that “there were 22 statute of limitation and other potential problems that would negatively impact the chances of 23 recovery” as favoring approval of the settlement. 48 Cal.App.4th at 1802. Similarly here, the 24 considerable risk posed by Defendants’ statute of limitations defense, when combined with the

27 <sup>2</sup> Just prior to the Parties’ finalization of the Settlement papers, the Supreme Court resolved Cyan 28 by holding that state courts have jurisdiction over certain Securities Act claims, as here. The Parties thereafter removed the provisions in the Settlement papers relating to Cyan.

1 significant risks and expenses associated with the continued litigation of the issues concerning 2 Defendant's duty to disclose the details of Twitter's compensation system, the potential cap on 3 damages asserted by Defendants, and Defendants' defense of negative causation, all counseled 4 Plaintiff and his attorneys to consider carefully the merits of their case before proceeding with 5 discovery, trial, and likely appeals, despite the perceived strength of Plaintiff's case.

6 Beyond these specific concerns, Plaintiff and his counsel also considered the general risks 7 and the expensive nature of further litigation in determining whether to continue with their 8 prosecution of this case. It is well known that class action litigation is inherently complex. See,
9 e.g., Nobles v. MBNA Corp., No. C 06-3723 CRB, 2009 WL 1854965, at *2 (N.D. Cal. June 29, 10 2009) (finding a proposed settlement proper "given the inherent difficulty of prevailing in class 11 action litigation"). Courts recognize that securities class actions, in particular, are typically 12 complex and expensive to prosecute. See, e.g., In re Heritage Bond Litig., No. 02-ML-1475 DT, 13 2005 WL 1594403, at *6 (C.D. Cal. June 10, 2005). This Action is no exception.

16 Prior to reaching agreement on the proposed Settlement, Plaintiff's Counsel had already 17 expended substantial efforts in litigating this Action. Plaintiff's Counsel had investigated the 18 Settlement Class's claims thoroughly, successfully defeated Defendants' demurrer and summary 19 judgment, reviewed and analyzed approximately 100,000 pages of documents, consulted with 20 experts on loss causation and damages, and prepared a detailed mediation statement. Joint Decl.
21 ¶7. Had the Action continued, Plaintiff's Counsel would have had to continue to expend 22 significant time and resources in litigating Plaintiff's claims. These efforts would have included 23 conducting further factual discovery, conducting expert discovery, likely engaging in motions to 24 compel discovery, filing a motion for class certification and a reply to Defendants' opposition 25 thereto, responding to likely motions for summary judgment on the merits of the claims, litigating 26 Daubert motions, and proving Plaintiff's claims at trial. Throughout these efforts, Plaintiff's 27
28

1 Counsel would have faced a vigorous defense from Defendants’ experienced counsel. See In re
2 Alloy, Inc. Sec. Litig., No. 03 Civ. 1597, 2004 WL 2750089, at *2 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 2, 2004) (noting 3 that securities fraud issues are “likely to be litigated aggressively, at substantial expense to all 4 parties”).

5 Even if Plaintiff and Plaintiff’s Counsel were to successfully navigate the above hazards 6 and obtained a significant judgment at trial, any recovery would likely be delayed for years
7 through post-trial motions and appeals. See In re Am. Apparel S’holder Litig., No. CV 10-06352
8 MMM (JCGX), 2014 WL 10212865, at *10 (C.D. Cal. July 28, 2014) (“Because both parties 9 would have had to engage in extensive, expensive summary judgment and pretrial activities, 10 because both faced the prospect that they would not prevail, and because any outcome would 11 likely have been appealed, this factor supports approval of the settlement”); In re Sony SXR 12 Rear Projection Television Class Action Litig., No. 06 CIV. 5173 (RPP), 2008 WL 1956267, at 13 *6 (S.D.N.Y. May 1, 2008) (“Not only would Plaintiffs spend substantial sums in litigating this 14 case through trial and appeals, it could be years before class members saw any recovery, if at 15 all”); Strougo ex rel. Brazilian Equity Fund, Inc. v. Bassini, 258 F. Supp. 2d 254, 261 (S.D.N.Y.
16 2003) (“[E]ven if a shareholder or class member was willing to assume all the risks of pursuing 17 the actions through further litigation and trial, the passage of time would introduce yet more risks 18 in terms of appeals and possible changes in the law and would, in light of the time value of money, 19 make future recoveries less valuable than this current recovery”).

20 The Settlement eliminates the inevitable risks of continued litigation and allows the 21 Settlement Class to recover now. This factor therefore weighs heavily in favor of approval of the 22 Settlement.

3. The Stage of the Proceedings Favors Approval

2 In determining whether the stage of the proceedings here favors approval, “the question is 3 not whether the parties have completed a particular amount of discovery, but whether the parties 4 have obtained sufficient information about the strengths and weaknesses of their respective cases 5 to make a reasoned judgment about the desirability of settling the case on the terms proposed or 6 continuing to litigate it.” In re OCA, Inc. Sec. & Deriv. Litig., 2009 WL 512081, at *12 (E.D. La.
7 Mar. 2, 2009). “[I]f the settlement proponents have taken affirmative steps to gather data on the 8 claims at issue and the terms of the settlement are not patently unfair, the Court may rely on 9 counsel's judgment that the information gathered was enough to support a settlement.” In re OCA, 10 Inc. Sec. & Deriv. Litig., Civil Action No. 05–2165, 2009 WL 512081, at *12 (E.D. La. Mar. 2, 11 2009).
12

13 When the parties agreed to settle, Plaintiff and his Counsel had a thorough understanding 14 of the strengths and weaknesses of their claims and the defenses asserted by Defendants, and 15 could make an informed appraisal regarding their chances of success. By the time the parties 16 convened for their mediation, Plaintiff’s Counsel had expended significant time and resources 17 litigating the Action, which included, among other things: (a) conducting an extensive 18 investigation of the claims asserted in the Action, including a detailed review of SEC filings, press 19 releases, analyst reports, news reports, and other public information, and consultation with loss 20 causation and damages experts; (b) preparing a detailed Complaint based on this investigation; 21 (c) successfully opposing Twitter’s demurrer seeking dismissal of the Complaint; (d) after the 22 Court’s denial of Twitter’s demurrer, conducting substantial discovery, which included 23 negotiating the production of more than 10,000 documents, consisting of approximately 100,000
24 pages, by Twitter, followed by analysis of such documents; (e) successfully opposing Twitter’s 25 motion for summary judgment on Twitter’s statute-of-limitations defense; (f) preparing for and 26
27
28

1 defending the deposition of Plaintiff, Johnny Hosey; and, (f) engaging in a mediation process 2 overseen by Jed Melnick, Esq., of JAMS, which involved the exchange of detailed written 3 submissions concerning liability and damages followed by a full-day formal mediation session.
4 Joint Decl. ¶7.

5 In addition to performing the above tasks in connection with the litigation of this Action, 6 Plaintiff and his counsel also considered the Court’s written decision on Defendants’ summary 7 judgment motion and an independent, experienced mediator’s feedback regarding the strengths 8 and weaknesses of Plaintiff’s claims. In short, the record before this Court supports the conclusion 9 that “the parties carefully investigated the claims before reaching a resolution.” In re Volkswagen
10 “Clean Diesel” Mktg., Sales Practices, & Prods. Liab. Litig., No. 2672 CRB(JSC), 2016 WL 11 6248426, at *13 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 25, 2016).

12
13 The stage of the proceedings, therefore, favors approval of the Settlement.

14 4. The Settlement Amount Favors Approval

15 16 “A settlement need not obtain 100 percent of the damages sought in order to be fair and 17 reasonable.” Wershba v. Apple Computer, Inc. (2001) 91 Cal.App.4th 224, 250, disapproved of 18 on other grounds by Hernandez v. Restoration Hardware, Inc. (2018) 4 Cal.5th 260. Even if “the 19 proposed settlement is only a small percentage of the total expected recovery at trial, ‘there is no 20 reason, at least in theory, why a satisfactory settlement could not amount to a hundredth or even 21 a thousandth part of a single percent of the potential recovery.’ ” Rubio-Delgado v. Aerotek, Inc., 22 No. 13-cv-03105-SC, 2015 WL 3623627, at *9 (N.D. Cal. June 10, 2015).<sup>3</sup>

24
25 <sup>3</sup> See also Officers for Justice v. Civil Serv. Comm'n of City & Cty. of San Francisco, 688 F.2d 26 615, 628 (9th Cir. 1982) (“It is well-settled law that a cash settlement amounting to only a fraction 27 of the potential recovery will not per se render the settlement inadequate or unfair”); Knight v.
28 Red Door Salons, Inc., No. 08-01520 SC, 2009 WL 248367, at *3 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 2, 2009) (“The immediacy and certainty of the settlement award justifies a recovery smaller than the Class Members could seek in the case”).

1 Under the Settlement, Defendants will pay $2.5 million, which represents approximately 2 5.8% of the roughly $43.2 million in terms of Plaintiff’s estimated aggregate damages. As a 3 percentage of Plaintiff’s total estimated damages, the Settlement Amount is well above the median 4 percentage of investor losses recovered recovery level in securities class action settlements. See 5 In re Omnivision Techs., Inc., 559 F. Supp. 2d 1036, 1042 (N.D. Cal. 2008) (approving 6% 6 recovery of maximum damages) (citing Heritage Bond, 2005 WL 1594403, at *8–9 (average 7 recovery between 2-3% of maximum damages)).<sup>4</sup> When viewed from Defendants’ “best case” 8 damages scenario, of course, the Settlement Amount fares even better. Assuming Plaintiff were 9 able to establish all elements of his claims, Defendants argued that, after adjusting for traceability 10 being lost upon the commingling of registered and unregistered shares, Plaintiff’s maximum 11 damages would fall from the roughly $43.2 million to no more than $11 million. From that $11 12 million damages ceiling, Defendants then argued that once their negative causation defense is 13 taken into account, Plaintiff’s damages are zero.
14

16 The Court should therefore conclude that the reasonableness of the Settlement Amount 17 favors approval of the Settlement.

18 5. The Experience and Views of Plaintiff’s Counsel Favor Approval

19 Both state and federal courts in California place “great weight” upon the recommendation 20 of counsel when considering the fairness of a settlement. See, e.g., Kullar v. Foot Locker Retail, 21 Inc., (2008) 168 Cal.App.4th 116, 129 (the “court undoubtedly should give considerable weight 22 to the competency and integrity of counsel” when evaluating a settlement); In re Volkswagen 23

25 <sup>4</sup> See also, e.g., Vaccaro v. New Source Energy Partners L.P., No. 15 CV 8954 (KMW), 2017
26 WL 6398636, at *6 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 14, 2017) (“Co-Lead Plaintiffs estimate that the maximum 27 recoverable damages would be approximately $44,000,000. The $2,850,000 settlement represents 28 6.5% of the maximum recoverable damages. This settlement amount is reasonable and in line with other settlements in securities class actions”); In re Giant Interactive Grp., Inc. Sec. Litig., 279 F.R.D. 151, 162-63 (S.D.N.Y. 2011) (“the average settlement in securities class actions ranges from 3% to 7% of the class’ total estimated losses”).

1 “Clean Diesel” Mktg., Sales Practices, & Prods. Liab. Litig., 2016 WL 6248426, at *14 (N.D.
2 Cal. Oct. 25, 2016) (“[c]ourts afford ‘great weight to the recommendation of counsel, who are 3 most closely acquainted with the facts of the underlying litigation’ ”); Am. Apparel, 2014 WL 4 10212865, at *14 (“The recommendations of plaintiffs’ counsel should be given a presumption 5 of reasonableness” because they are “better positioned than courts to produce a settlement that 6 fairly reflects each party’s expected outcome in litigation”).

8 Plaintiff’s Counsel have many years of experience in litigating securities class actions 9 throughout the country – including within this State in particular – and in assessing the respective 10 merits of each side’s case. Joint Decl., Exs. 1-A & 2-A (Plaintiff’s Counsel’s firm resumes).
11 Additionally, throughout the litigation and settlement negotiations, Defendants have been 12 represented by very skilled and highly respected counsel, Simpson Thacher & Bartlett LLP, one 13 of the largest and most respected law firms in the world. Defendants’ counsel brought 14 considerable experience and expertise to bear and vigorously defended this Action.

15 16 In the face of this knowledgeable and formidable defense, Plaintiff’s Counsel was 17 nonetheless able to develop a case that was strong enough to persuade Defendants to settle on 18 terms that are favorable to the Class. Indeed, “the fact that experienced counsel involved in the 19 case approved the settlement after hard-fought negotiations is entitled to considerable weight.”

20 Ellis v. Naval Air Rework Facility, 87 F.R.D. 15, 18 (N.D. Cal. 1980); see also Riker v. Gibbons, 21 No. 3:08-CV-00115-LRH, 2010 WL 4366012, at *2 (D. Nev. Oct. 28, 2010) (“An initial 22 presumption of fairness is usually involved if the settlement is recommended by class counsel 23 after arm’s-length bargaining”). This makes sense, as counsel is “most closely acquainted with 24 the facts of the underlying litigation,” Heritage Bond, 2005 WL 1594403, at *9, and “[p]arties 25 represented by competent counsel are better positioned than courts to produce a settlement that 26 fairly reflects each party’s expected outcome in litigation.” In re Pac. Enters. Sec. Litig., 47 F.3d 27
28

1 373, 378 (9th Cir. 1995). Thus, “the trial judge, absent fraud, collusion, or the like, should be 2 hesitant to substitute its own judgment for that of counsel.” Heritage, 2005 WL 1594403, at *9.
3 The Court should apply the presumption in favor of counsel’s judgment here.

4 6. The Reaction of the Settlement Class Favors Approval

5 The reaction of the Class to the Settlement is another factor in determining the adequacy of 6 the Settlement. See Omnivision, 559 F. Supp. 2d at 1043; In re Rambus Inc. Deriv. Litig., No. C
7 06–3513 JF (HRL), 2009 WL 166689, at *3 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 20, 2009) (“[T]he absence of a large 8 number of objections to a proposed class action settlement raises a strong presumption that the 9 terms of a proposed class settlement action are favorable to the class members”). “In order to 10 gauge the reaction of the other class members, it is appropriate to evaluate the number of requests 11 for exclusion, as well as the objections submitted.” Am. Apparel, 2014 WL 10212865, at *15.

12 The deadline to file objections to the Settlement is July 13, 2018, and the deadline to request 13 exclusion from the settlement is July 5, 2018. To date, there have been no objections and only 9 14 requests for exclusion received, 5 of which are invalid. Declaration of Sarah Evans Concerning 15 the Mailing of the Notice of Postcard Notice of Proposed Settlement of Class Action, Publication
16 of Summary Notice, Exclusion Requests Received, and Objections Submitted (“Evans Decl.”)
17 (Ex. 3 to Joint Decl.), filed herewith, at ¶¶11-12. If necessary, Plaintiff will address any objections 18 in his reply.

19 Generally, a court will find that this factor strongly favors final approval if the record 20 establishes a high claims rate accompanied by low opt-out and objection rates. See, e.g., In re
21 Volkswagen “Clean Diesel” Mktg., Sales Practices, & Prods. Liab. Litig., No. 2672 CRB(JSC), 22 2016 WL 6248426, at *14 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 25, 2016) (“Given the high claim rate and the low opt-23 out and objection rates, this factor strongly favors final approval”); McPhail v. First Command
24 Fin. Planning, Inc., No. 05cv179-IEG-J MA, 2009 WL 839841, at *6 (S.D. Cal. Mar. 30, 2009) 25
26
27
28

1 (when over 207,000 notices were sent and five class members objected and 56 opted-out, the court 2 concluded that “presence of a small minority of objectors strongly supports a finding that the 3 settlement is fair, reasonable, and adequate”); In re Bear Stearns Cos. Sec., Deriv. & ERISA Litig., 4 909 F. Supp. 2d 259, 267 (S.D.N.Y. 2012) (“Given the absence of significant exclusion or 5 objection—the rate of exclusion is 5.1% and the rate of objection is less than 1%—this factor 6 weighs strongly in favor of approval.”); In re AOL Time Warner, Inc., No. 02 CIV. 5575 (SWK), 7 2006 WL 903236, at *10 (S.D.N.Y. Apr. 6, 2006) (finding that the “small number of objectors 8 and low percentage of opt-outs strongly favor the Settlement”).

10 Based on the claims, exclusion, and objection rates demonstrated to date, the reaction of 11 the Class strongly supports approval of the Settlement.

12 III. THE PROPOSED PLAN OF ALLOCATION WARRANTS APPROVAL
13 BECAUSE IT IS FAIR, REASONABLE, AND ADEQUATE

14 In the Preliminary Approval Order, the Court preliminarily approved the Notice and the 15 Plan of Allocation. Plaintiff now requests that the Court grant final approval of the Plan of 16 Allocation, for the purpose of administering the Settlement. The proposed Plan of Allocation was 17 fully described in the Notice. See Joint Decl., Ex. 5.

18 Assessment of the adequacy of a plan of allocation in a class action “is governed by the 19 same standards of review applicable to approval of the settlement as a whole: the plan must be 20 fair, reasonable and adequate.” Omnivision, 559 F. Supp. 2d at 1045. As a result, “[a]n allocation 21 formula need only have a reasonable, rational basis, particularly if recommended by experienced 22 and competent class counsel.” In re WorldCom, Inc. Sec. Litig., 388 F. Supp. 2d 319, 344
23 (S.D.N.Y. 2005). Because they tend to mirror the complaint’s allegations in securities class 24 actions, “plans that allocate money depending on the timing of purchases and sales of the 25 securities at issue are common” and generally warrant approval. In re Datatec Sys., Inc. Sec. Litig., 26 Master File No. 04–CV–525 (GEB), 2007 WL 4225828, at *5 (D.N.J. Nov. 28, 2007); see also 27
28

1 In re Gen. Instrument Sec. Litig., 209 F. Supp. 2d 423, 431 (E.D. Pa. 2001) (deeming plan of 2 allocation where “claimants are to be reimbursed on a pro rata basis for their recognized losses 3 based largely on when they bought and sold their shares of General Instrument stock” as “even 4 handed”).

5 “ ‘A plan of allocation . . . fairly treats class members by awarding a pro rata share to 6 every Authorized Claimant, [even as it] sensibly makes interclass distinctions based upon, inter 7 alia, the relative strengths and weaknesses of class members’ individual claims and the timing of 8 purchases of the securities at issue.’ ” Heritage Bond, 2005 WL 1594403, at *11. Here, the 9 proposed Plan of Allocation distributes the settlement proceeds on a pro rata basis, calculating a 10 Claimant’s relative loss proximately caused by Defendants’ alleged false and misleading 11 statements and material omissions, based on factors such as when and at what prices the Claimant 12 purchased and sold shares of Twitter common stock. This approach is reasonable under the law.
13 See Munoz v. BCI Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Los Angeles (2010) 186 Cal. App. 4th 399, 412 n.8 14 (upholding approval of settlement that provided each claimant with proportionate share of 15 settlement fund).
16
17

18 The reasonableness of the Plan finds further support in its development by Plaintiff’s 19 experienced counsel in consultation with a damages expert. “With respect to the formula used in 20 a Plan, courts recognize that ‘[a]n allocation formula need only have a reasonable, rational basis, 21 particularly if recommended by experienced and competent counsel.’ ” Nguyen v. Radiant 22 Pharmaceuticals Corp., No. SACV 11–00406 DOC (MLGx), 2014 WL 1802293, at *5 (C.D. Cal.
23 May 6, 2014). As explained in the Joint Declaration, Plaintiff engaged a damages expert to assist 24 in developing a plan to allocate the Settlement proceeds among Claimants. Joint Decl. ¶¶41, 56.
25 The Plan of Allocation was formulated by Plaintiff’s Counsel, in consultation with a damages 26 expert, with the goal of reimbursing Class members in a fair and reasonable manner. Id.; see also 27
28

1 Riker, 2010 WL 4366012, at *5 (“Class counsel has consistently consulted with experts 2 throughout this litigation, and based on these consultations, has determined that the terms agreed 3 upon in the settlement represent a fair, adequate, and reasonable settlement of plaintiffs’ claims”).

4 For these reasons, the Court should approve the Plan of Allocation.

5 IV. THE COURT SHOULD AFFIRM ITS CERTIFICATION OF THE CLASS

6 On May 3, 2018, this Court issued its Preliminary Approval Order, in which it preliminarily 7 certified the following Class: “all persons or entities (“Persons”) that purchased or otherwise 8 acquired Twitter, Inc. (“Twitter”) common stock between November 7, 2013 and February 18, 9 2014, inclusive, pursuant or traceable to the Registration Statement for Twitter’s November 7, 10 2013 Initial Public Offering (the “IPO”) (the “Class”).”<sup>5</sup> The Court also found, for purposes of 11 the Settlement only, that:
12

13 (a) the number of Class Members is so numerous that joinder of all 14 members thereof is impracticable; (b) there are questions of law and 15 fact common to the Class; (c) the claims of Plaintiff are typical of 16 the claims of the Class he seeks to represent; (d) Plaintiff and 17 Plaintiff’s Counsel will fairly and adequately represent the interests 18 of the Class; (e) the questions of law and fact common to the 19 members of the Class predominate over questions affecting only individual members of the Class; and (f) a class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of this controversy.

20 <sup>5</sup> The Preliminary Approval Order further provided as follows: “The Class is limited to Persons 21 who purchased or otherwise acquired Twitter common stock before February 19, 2014 because 22 Twitter stock that was not issued pursuant to the Registration Statement was publicly trading by 23 February 19, 2014, making it difficult or impossible for persons who purchased on or after 24 February 19, 2014 to trace their stock to the Registration Statement, as required for the Section 25 11 claim in the Action. Also excluded from the Class are (i) Twitter, (ii) the Individual 26 Defendants, (iii) any current or former officers and directors of Twitter, (iv) the Underwriters, and 27 (v) all such excluded Persons’ immediate family members, legal representatives, heirs, parents, 28 wholly-owned subsidiaries, successors, and assigns. Notwithstanding the foregoing sentence, the Class shall include any investment company or pooled investment fund, including, but not limited to, mutual fund families, exchange-traded funds, fund of funds and hedge funds, in which the Underwriters, or any of them, have, has or may have a direct or indirect interest, or as to which any Underwriter’s affiliates may act as an investment advisor, but as to which any Underwriter alone or together with any of its respective affiliates is neither a majority owner nor the holder of a majority beneficial interest. Also excluded from the Class are Persons otherwise meeting the definition of the Class who submit valid and timely requests for exclusion from the Settlement.”
Preliminary Approval Order ¶1.

1 Preliminary Approval Order ¶2.

2 Since the issuance of the Preliminary Approval Order, there have been no material changes 3 that would call into question the propriety of the Court’s preliminary findings. Therefore, the 4 Court should affirm its preliminary findings, and, for purposes of the Settlement only, certify the 5 Class and appoint Plaintiff as Class Representative and Plaintiff’s Counsel as Lead Counsel for 6 the Class. See In re Bear Stearns Cos. Sec., Deriv. & ERISA Litig., 909 F. Supp. 2d 259, 267
7 (S.D.N.Y. 2012) (granting final certification of class “[s]ince there have been no material changes 8 to alter the propriety of these findings regarding the Settlement Class”).

11 V. CONCLUSION

12 For reasons set forth above and in the declarations submitted in conjunction with this 13 motion, the Court should grant Lead Plaintiff’s Unopposed Motion for Final Approval of 14 Settlement, approve the Plan of Allocation, and finally certify the Class.
